WOODROW WILSON MADE PRESIDENT

Many Thousands Witness His Induction Into Office.

CEREMONIES ARE IMPRESSIVE

New Executive of Nation Takes Oath of East Portico of Capitol After Marshall Becomes Vice-President.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.
Washington, March 4.—Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey is president of the United States and Thomas Riley Marshall of Indiana is vice-president. The instant that the oath-taking ceremonies at noon today in front of the capitol were completed, the Democratic party of this country "came into its own" again after an absence of sixteen years from the precincts of executive power.

A throng of many thousands of people witnessed the newly elected president's induction into office. Nineteenth of the members of the crowd were enthusiastically joyful, the other tenth cheered with them, as becoming good American citizens watching a governmental change ordered in accordance with the law and the Constitution.

The Bible which during each successive four years is kept as one of the treasures of the Supreme court, was the immediate instrument of the oath taking of Woodrow Wilson. Edward Douglas White, chief justice of the United States, held the Book for Mr. Wilson to rest his hands upon while he made solemn covenant to support the Constitution and the laws of the United States, and to fulfill the duties of his office as well as and faithfully as it lay within his power to do.

Thomas Riley Marshall swore fealty to the Constitution and to the people in the senate chamber, where for four years it will be his duty to preside over the deliberations of the members of the upper house of congress.

Ceremonies Simple and Impressive.

Both of the ceremonies proper were conducted in a severely simple but most impressive manner. The surroundings of the scene of the president's induction into office, however, were not so simple, for it was an out-of-door event and the great gathering of military, naval and uniformed civil organizations gave much more than a touch of splendor to the scene.

In the senate chamber, where the oath was taken by the man now vice-president of the United States, there were gathered about 2,000 people, all that the upper house will contain without the risk of danger because of the rush and press of the multitudes. It is probable that nowhere else in the United States at any time are there gathered an equal number of men and women whose names are so widely known. The gathering in the senate chamber and later on the east portico of the capitol was composed largely of those prominent for their services in America, and in part of foreigners who have secured places for their names in the current history of the world's doings.

Arranged by Congress.

The arrangements of the ceremonies for the inauguration of Woodrow Wilson and Thomas Riley Marshall were made by the joint committee on arrangements of congress. The senate session of this committee was ruled by a majority of Republicans, but there is Democratic testimony to the fact that the Republican senators were willing to outdo their Democratic brethren in the work of making orderly and impressive the inaugural ceremonies in honor of two chieftains of the opposition.

President Taft and President-elect Wilson rode together from the White House to the capitol, accompanied by two members of the congressional committee of arrangements. The vice-president-elect also rode from the White House to the capitol and in the carriage with him were the senate's president pro tempore, Senator Bacon of Georgia, and three members of the congressional committee of arrangements.

The admission to the senate chamber to witness the oath-taking of the vice-president was by ticket, and it is needless to say every seat was occupied. On the floor of the chamber were many former members of the senate who, because of the fact that they once held membership in that body, were given the privileges of the floor. After the hall was filled and all the minor officials of government and those privileged to witness the ceremonies were seated, William H. Taft and Woodrow Wilson, preceded by the sergeant-at-arms and the committee of arrangements, entered the senate chamber. They were followed immediately by Vice-President-elect Thomas R. Marshall, leaning upon the arm of the president pro tempore of the senate.

The president and the president-elect sat in the first row of seats directly in front and almost under the desk of the presiding officer. In the same row, but to their left, were the vice-president-elect and two former vice-presidents of the United States, Levi P. Morton of New York and Adlai A. Stevenson of Illinois.

When the distinguished company entered the chamber the senate was still under its old organization. The oath of office was immediately administered to Vice-President-elect Marshall, who thereupon became Vice-President Marshall. The prayer of the president was given by the chaplain of the senate, Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, pastor of All Souls' Unitarian church, of which President Taft has been a member. After the prayer the vice-president administered the oath of office to all the newly chosen senators, and therewith the senate of the United States passed for the first time in years into the control of the Democratic party.

Procession to East Portico.

Immediately after the senate ceremonies a procession was formed to march to the platform of the east portico of the capitol, where Woodrow Wilson was to take the oath. The procession included the president and the president-elect, members of the Supreme court, both houses of congress, all of the foreign ambassadors, all of the heads of the executive departments, many governors of states and territories, Admiral Dewey of the navy and several high officers of the sea service, the chief of staff of the army and many distinguished persons from civil life. They were followed by the members of the press and by those persons who had succeeded in securing seats in the senate galleries to witness the day's proceedings.

When President Taft and the president-elect emerged from the capitol on to the portico they saw in front of them, reaching far back into the park to the east, an immense concourse of citizens. In the narrow line between the onlookers and the platform on which Mr. Wilson was to take the oath, were drawn up the cadets of the two greatest government schools, West Point and Annapolis, and flanking them were bodies of regulars and of national guardsmen. The whole scene was charged with color and with life.

On reaching the platform the president and president-elect took the seats reserved for them, seats which were flanked by many rows of benches rising tier on tier for the accommodation of the friends and families of the officers of the government and of the press.

Mr. Wilson Takes the Oath.

The instant that Mr. Taft and Mr. Wilson came within sight of the crowd there was a great outburst of ad-

MRS. GREEN BEARD

Goes to Her Reward--Hardinsburg Her Home Eighty-two Years--Death Comes Thursday Afternoon.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Beard, wife of G. W. Beard, deceased, passed away on Thursday, February 27, after two weeks' illness due to old age. The interment took place in the city cemetery after funeral services conducted by the writer in the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Mrs. Beard was born in Elizabethtown, Ky., June 17, 1830. Her father, Mr. Morris Hensley, moved to Hardinsburg when Mrs. Beard was only two months old; for over 82 years Hardinsburg has been her home. She became a member of the Methodist church in early life. Her home and her father's home was always the preacher's home. She was very devoted to her church and its ministers; always attending the Conference from time to time with her husband.

Since Bro. Beard's death, last April, she has been very lonely, as she expressed it, she missed him so much.

She had always been a very active woman; bright and cheerful, full of fun, looking on the bright side of life.

She lived a consistent Christian; being a faithful attendant upon the church services, she will be greatly missed. She has been very kind to us, showing on many occasions and many ways her appreciation of our love and highest esteem which we had for her. We shall never forget her, but shall ever remember her and cherish her friendship.

plause, and the military bands struck quickly into "The Star Spangled Banner." Only a few bars of the music were played and then soldiers and civilians became silent to witness respectfully the oath taking and to listen to the address which followed.

The chief justice of the Supreme court delivered the oath to the president-elect, who, uttering the words, "I will," became president of the United States. As soon as this ceremony was completed Woodrow Wilson delivered his inaugural address, his first speech to his fellow countrymen in the capacity of their chief executive.

At the conclusion of the speech the bands played once more, and William Howard Taft, now ex-president of the United States, entered a carriage with the new president and, reversing the order of an hour before, sat on the left hand side of the carriage, while Mr. Wilson took "the seat of honor" on the right. The crowds cheered as they drove away to the White House, which Woodrow Wilson entered as the occupant and which William H. Taft immediately left as one whose lease had expired.

MODERN METHOD USED IN CLOVERPORT

For Finishing Walls In Residences And Public Buildings. Marion Weatherholt Attains Success In Modern Interior Decoration.

MAY RESIDENCE BEAUTIFUL

Marion Weatherholt, general contractor of this city, is receiving many enthusiastic comments on his Interior Decoration contract which is being completed this week in the residence of Mrs. Charles May. Every room in the house is being made over in Pee Gee Flatcoat, which is the hygienic decorative oil paint. The paper was scraped off of all the walls and ceilings before this modern wall finish was applied. Mr. William McCracken, master painter and decorator, has been assisted by Mr. Charles Hall. Their work is quite satisfactory and is representative of the art of wall decoration in a high degree.

The flatcoat gives the home a most hospitable appearance and all the halls and rooms are in splendid taste and harmonious colors. The parlor and dining room are in old ivory and the halls are in palm green. Bed rooms are in Nile and silk green, old rose and sky blue. "Mother's room" is in soft blue and the music room is in shell pink. The borders are in appropriate patterns, giving an artistic and beautiful finish.

One attractive feature on the new finishing is, every closet is flatcoated in white and all the grates and hearths are flatcoated in corresponding colors with the walls. The wood-work has been made over in the proper finish. A new hot water furnace has recently been installed in the house by Mr. Weatherholt and this is a perfect delight to the home. As soon as the interior work is finished the house will be repainted on the outside with the best materials.

Mr. Weatherholt's business as contractor is growing every season. His attitude of common sense and courtesy to the public, and his frank and progressive methods have brought about the most gratifying results.

Resolutions.

Resolutions from The Woman's Missionary Society of the Baptist church, McQuady, Ky. Whereas, we the committee appointed, offer the following resolutions in memory of Mrs. Nettie E. Ball, who on January the twenty-second was called to her heavenly home.

Be it resolved, That we are grateful to God for the time that she was permitted to live among us, and for the comforting assurance that we shall meet her again.

Resolved, That we thank Him for the example of her life, and feel it a personal loss for she was ever ready and willing to respond to any work for her Master that she was called upon to do. Led by the spirit of God, we believe that others will take up the work and that in her death even as in her life, we will all be blessed and His name be glorified.

Resolved, That we as members of this society by our Christian love and sympathy and by our prayers seek to comfort our sister member and faithful secretary, Mrs. G. A. Wright, in the great trial through which she has passed in the loss of her mother. May her trust and faith in the Lord grow stronger and may she look forward with bright hopes to the time when she will be restored to the loved one who is not dead, but present with the Lord.

Resolved, That we extend to her family and relatives our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement, and praying that this affliction may draw them nearer to God, Who has said all things work together for good to them that love the Lord.

WOMEN ACT ON GRAND JURY

Men Inquire Gossip Too Much, Remarks a California Judge at Redwood, Cal.

Redwood City, Cal.—In accepting the qualifications of seventeen women for the San Mateo county grand jury venire, Superior Judge George Buck in effect placed at least six women on the grand jury. Only thirteen men were named and the membership of the grand jury is limited to nineteen. This will be the first instance in this state of women serving on a grand jury.

Judge Buck accepted married women, most of whom appear as "housewives" on the voting register.

"I've always wanted to get a jury that wouldn't gossip," said Judge Buck. "There never has been a grand jury in San Mateo county that could keep a secret, and now we'll give the women a chance."

Ruse of Absent Housewife's Sister Saves Roll of Cash, and Thief Avoids Silver.

Pittsburgh.—A daring burglar was outwitted by a woman's sagacity and cunning after he had entered the residence of Daniel J. Hurley, at No. 7050 Kedron avenue, Homewood, seeking a big sum of money, which he evidently knew was somewhere in the house. The marauder, however, was neatly tricked by Miss Katherine Scanlon, a twenty-five-year-old sister of Mrs. Hurley, who secreted a roll of $500 in her hair, which she deftly coiled in a fetching coiffure on her head.

Shortly after midnight Miss Scanlon, who had been left at home with the two-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hurley, while they went out to a reception, heard some one downstairs in the dining-room. Going to the head of the stairs, she asked who was there.

When she heard heavy footsteps ascending the stairway the plucky young girl hurried into a bedroom, got the roll of money and hid it in her beautiful hair, which she had been arranging preparatory to retiring.

When the burglar entered the room Miss Scanlon coolly asked him what he wanted, and he replied:

"Money; I know it's here, too!"

The young woman declared the money had been paid out that day; but the burglar was not satisfied, and searched her and forced her to take all the clothes from the baby in his efforts to locate the money. Finally turning to Miss Scanlon, the robber said:

"There's a lot of silverware and stuff here; but I was after money, I don't want to harm you and the kid, so I'll say good-bye."

PLAIN WORDS BY VICE-PRESIDENT

Marshall's Inaugural Address to Members of Senate.

MUST GUARD NATION'S HONOR

New Presiding Officer of Upper House
Says It Should See That Treaty Obligations Are Observed and Wrongs Rectified.

Washington, March 4.—Following is the inaugural address delivered by Vice-President Marshall:

Senators: The proprieties of this occasion probably require a few words from one who is grateful to the American people for the honor heretofore done him and this day consummated.

No senator has, I trust, a keener appreciation of the necessities in the way of tact and courtesy now devolving upon me than I myself. I offer no surety as to my discharge of duties other than a personal pledge that I will seek to familiarize myself with them and will endeavor always to exercise that complaisance and forbearance which are essential to him who ably presides over great debates upon great public questions by great men.

Divergent views relative to this body would be less divergent if the American people would come to realize that on all sides of real questions much may truthfully be said. Such an attitude of the public mind would eliminate the view that this body is distinctly deliberative and not thoroughly patriotic.

No Substitute for the Senate.
Charges of bad faith based upon an attitude of mind or upon conduct should never be made until it is clearly established that the resultant action is the outcome of personal interest or improper and dishonorable business or social relations.

Your action has not always met with universal approval, but up to this good hour no workable substitute for the exercise of the functions of this body has been proposed. It is not needful for me here and now to accept a brief in your defense. This body will continue to stand not because of its presiding officer, but because of the patriotism and intelligence of its constituent members and their devotion to our system of government.

Guards the People's Honor.

With neither right nor desire to infringe upon the prerogatives of the president soon to be, I beg the expression of the opinion that whatever diverse views may be held relative to the work of this body all persons are agreed that under the Constitution the senate of the United States is singularly the guardian of the people's honor; that more and more, as righteousness is exalted among this people, the idea is becoming more firmly fixed that it is not vast territory, great wealth nor large learning which mark the real status of America; that America is to be measured by the golden mete wand of honor; and, as the idea in her formation was the inherent right of men to rule themselves, that now she can ill afford to announce this doctrine in her own land and renounce it for an instrument of oppression in other lands.

Unfortunately there is no fixed standard of honor outside the dictionary. The gambler may hold it to consist in paying his gaming debts;
the member of the smart set, in divorcing his neighbor's wife before taking her unto himself; the senator,
in eliminating personalities.

Cordial Relations

The relations of this bank to its depositors and to the community at large are of a most cordial nature. Its officers are always glad to assist patrons
in any way that will facilitate their banking transactions and that will be in keeping with prudent
banking principles.

Upon this basis of sound,
HELPFUL banking, your account is invited.

The Farmers Bank,
Hardinsburg, Ky.

must Observe Treaties.

But when we enter the chancelleries of the world and submit to their judgments not only our right to be but our right to be respected, we can hope to be measured in but one way;
and we must be able to show that the solemn treaty obligations of this republic will be kept with the same scrupulous honesty, both of spirit and letter, whether made with the humblest people of this continent struggling for self-government or with the mightiest monarch of the old world.

This high sense of honor constitutes the panoply of the American people.
Armies and battleships furnish no substitute for it. These are valuable, but the people never intended that authority should use them as accessories to a burglar's kit.

Duty to Rectify Wrong.

If any one in the name of the American people, either in violation of treaty obligations or the manifest purpose of the Monroe doctrine, has taken aught while this body was deliberating, it is your duty to ascertain all the facts thereto. And if wrong or injustice has been done, even to the humblest republic, let this people be brave enough and sufficiently honest to make reparation. The real greatness of this republic rests upon its unsullied honor, and it is the duty of this body to search down rumors of bad faith and dishonesty and to rectify wrong wherever wrong is discovered.

Here in this most sacred spot where war has been made and peace declared, here in the presence of the distinguished representatives of the governments of the civilized world,

The Parcel Post Gives You Access to this Store, Its Facilities, Its Assortments and Its Low Prices the Same As If You Lived In Our City

There was a time, and not so very long ago, when people living in our city had an edge on persons living away from our town, as regards taking advantage of our sales, our service, our assortments and our low prices. That time is now past, however, since the Parcel Post is in operation.

WHETHER you live one mile, one hundred or one thousand miles away from our store it is all the same so far as being able to avail yourself of this store's buying and selling facilities.
All you need to do now is to write or phone us your order today and the mail man will deliver it to you in the morning.

Of course, there are some things we sell that cannot be delivered by the mail man under the Parcel Post Service.

For instance, we cannot send under the Parcel Post any big piece of Furniture nor any large piece of House Furnishings or Household Goods, as under Parcel Post regulations you cannot mail anything that weighs more than 11 pounds nor anything that exceeds in length and girth combined 72 inches.

Yet in a big store like ours where you can buy almost everything for everybody, you can readily see that there are a thousand and one things that can be sent by Parcel Post and the impressing feature of it all is that

We Will Deliver Free Anything You Buy From Us That Can Be Sent By Parcel Post

SHOULD you desire to buy some large or weighty articles, we will deliver them to you free of charge by express or freight, providing your purchase amounts to $5.00 or more and that you live within a radius of 200 miles of Louisville.

We want your business and are making this free delivery proposition so that you may send us a trial order and test thereby our ability to sell you better goods for the same price or the same goods at a lower price. And, remember, that whatever we sell, either by mail or over our counters, must in all instances be thoroughly satisfactory. If otherwise we cheerfully refund the money.

No More Free Seeds.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Congressional distribution of seeds was ended by the Senate today by eliminating from the agricultural appropriation bill a provision appropriating $250,000 for that purpose.

Among the more important amendments adopted was the bill by Senator Hoke Smith, creating a bureau of markets in the Department of Agriculture.

The bill as it passed the Senate carried $18,000,000, an increase of nearly $1,000,000 over the House bill.

Important to all Women

Readers of this Paper.

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, bearing down feelings, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But thousands of irritable, nervous,
tired and broken-down women have restored their health and strength by the use of Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

Swamp-Root brings new life and activity to the kidneys, the cause of such troubles.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy will do for them. Every reader of this paper, who has not already tried it, may address
Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and receive sample bottle free by mail.
You can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at all drug stores.

Brings Tobacco Here.

C. E. Stevenson, of Hardinsburg, brought his tobacco to J. H. Phelon & Co. Friday. He had 2,000 pounds and got $8, $8 and $3 for it. Mr. Stevenson was satisfied with the price, but, he said, too big a price had not been paid for tobacco as it took lots of hard work to raise it.

Home From Texas.

Mrs. H. A. Garrett, of Houston, Texas, and Mrs. Isaac Taylor, of Hawes-ville, were here last week visiting Mrs.
Martha Noble. Mrs. Garrett is glad to be back in her "Old Kentucky Home." Since going to the Lone Star State, she has had both joys and sorrows, having lost a grown daughter who was married only a few months. The friends of Mrs. Garrett here have enjoyed being with her again.

D. M. Duncan, editor and publisher of the Meade County Messenger, has announced his candidacy for the office of County Judge of Meade. His friends believe that he will simply walk into the office and are more than gratified with his announcement which is the only one made for Judge in Meade county subject to the action of the Democratic primary in August. Mr. Duncan is a progressive young man. He believes in doing things and having them done. He has made a success of his own business and it goes without saying that he will conduct the affairs of his county in the same careful and systematic way. He will make Meade county a good Judge and he ought to be elected without opposition.

A dispatch from Washington says that this Congress will end with a number of Kentucky appointments lacking confirmation. The result of failure to confirm these nominations places the offices involved before President Wilson in the first lot of patronage he will have for distribution. Offices thus thrown open at once to Democratic applicants are: Cloverport, Leitchfield, Livermore, Smith's Grove, Glasgow, Earlington and others in eastern Kentucky.

We have another man who wants to be jailor of Breckenridge county. It seems to be a beloved office and everybody is trying to get into the ring. It is a good office, says Dr. C. C. Ahl, who swings into the ring this week with his soul set on capturing it. He further says he has been a party worker for 40 years and this is his first time to ask for an office.

Jesse Whitworth has promised us a new picture with up-to-date tie and collar.

Rebecca Brashear Younger Dies of Blood Poison

Rebecca Brashear Younger, the three year old daughter of Mr. James Younger, died at four o'clock yesterday morning. She died of blood poison caused from vaccination. The burial will take place today at Irvington at 12 o'clock beside the grave of Mr. C. M. McGlothlin.

The precious little baby, when seven days old, was taken at her mother's death by her great aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. McGlothlin, of West Point. She had been the light and love of their home and hearts, and was devotedly cared for by them and Miss Minnie Hoyle. Besides her father, she leaves her little sister, Eudora McGlothlin Younger.

Busy Store : Irvington, Ky.

TO FARMERS AND STOCKMEN.

Yielding to the clamor from all sides for a different type horse for this section, viz: a horse of weight, bone and substance; a horse that is kind in disposition, and with all this, a horse that will sire mothers for our mules. We have secured at high cost the magnificent Percheron Stallion, "Camanche Chief," No. 63416, Percheron Association of America. We also purchased three grade weanling Percheron fillies to show you what to expect from this horse. We looked over 45 magnificent Blue Grass Jacks, but had not intended purchasing one until we saw the two great Tennessee families, "Taxpayer" and "Starlight" harmoniously blended in "Black Sampson," the "Mare Mule Jack."

This Jack was held at a price that stood us off until we saw some of his mule colts, when we decided to bring him to our people. So we invite you to come and see this great Stallion and Taxpayer, Starlight Jack, and the Percheron fillies. See our splendid arrangement of paddocks, small lots, etc., for handling this stock safely and privately. Note that we are prepared to keep distant mares at small cost, and bring into successful use all methods that can aid in making mares breed that are out of the habit; and that license fees will be very moderate. (See bills.) Be sure to watch this space and read what we say under

Chronic Stomach Trouble Cured

There is nothing more discouraging than a chronic disorder of the stomach. Is it not surprising that many suffer for years with such an ailment when a permanent cure is within their reach and may be had for a trifle? “About one year ago,” says P. H. Beck, of Wakelee, Mich., “I bought a package of Chamberlain's Tablets, and since using them I have felt perfectly well. I had previously used any number of different medicines, but none of them were of any lasting benefit.” For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

You carry Fire Insurance—and why?

Because of the danger of sudden loss.

Because it protects you against this uncertainty, although your buildings may never burn down.

Do you protect them against decay—against the weather—against the dead certainty of depreciation resulting from allowing them to go unpainted. Why not?

Paint Insurance is worth even more to you than Fire Insurance—yet is often sadly neglected—and you are the loser.

PUBLIC SALE!

I WILL ON

Thursday, March 13, 1913

at One O'Clock p. m.

Offer for sale on a credit of 6 months, interest from date a large part of the live stock on the farm, consisting of 5 head of Horses and Mules, 2 Jacks, 2 Jennets, 4 head Jersey Cows and Heifers and 1 10-months old Jersey bull ready for service. Also 8 head 150 lb. Duroc Jersey bred gilts and 2 Duroc Boars, all are eligible to registration.

In this offering you will observe that "Ben" the best breeding Jack in the three adjoining counties goes up and will be knocked off to the man who has the longest pole. Would not sell him but have a number of his get on the farm coming into maturity. He has earned for me every year that I have owned him from $400 to $500. If you are in the hole buy him. He will pull you out in the next ninety days.

The coming three-year-old Jack is a good prospect for the right man. He is not a large Jack, but well formed and black as a crow with mealy points. Will make a book this season of 50 mares. Don't be afraid to buy him. He is all right and sound as a cockroach. The two Jennets I offer are both bred to Ben and believed to be in foal. If you buy these Jennets at a long price and don't want them just leave them with C. H. D. They have made me rich--in Jacks. Why not you? Two of the horses in this offering are 4 years old and are good business horses, sound and broke to harness. Two 2 year-olds will make nice horses. One fine weanling black mare mule will do to go in any company. I'm selling her because she has no mate.

This sale will be positive, rain or shine, and will be conducted as my former sales have, on a high plane. There will be no by-bidding and everything led out will go to the man paying the most money.

The young lady in the case, it seems, is the most beautiful, the most remarkable ever.

And you are perfectly, dreadfully, terribly, awfully anxious to know if she cares the tiniest, most infinitesimal bit for you (One moment, please; change of film.)

It isn't often that you come to your Uncle, accompanied by such an amount of excess verbal baggage as this letter displays.

In order to keep the average balanced, I will try to make my reply brief.

The best way to find out if she does care for you, strange as it may seem, can be summed up in three words:

GO ASK HER.

When this brilliant thought sinks through your sentiment-saturated soul, you can let me know whether I shall send condolences or a cut-glass vase.

The Senatorial Race.

All factions of the Boyle county Democracy have united to make Boyle county the banner Beckham county in the State in the primary to be held in August.

Boyle county is the home of E. W. Lillard, who was elected as a Democrat and who later, with McNutt, Charlton and Mueller, of Louisville, voted to make W. O. Bradley Senator from Kentucky. The position of the Democrats of Boyle is that the August primary affords the time and place for making a test of public sentiment upon that act of treachery.

Mr. Beckham is again a candidate for Senator. He is opposed, in the main, by the men and influences that, acting upon four Democratic Legislators, made Mr. Bradley, a Republican, Senator, by the aid of Democratic votes. Do the Democrats of Kentucky propose to endorse the action of Lillard, McNutt, Charlton and Mueller? That is the question to be determined in the Democratic primary in August, and the Democrats of the home county of E. W. Lillard are preparing their answer.

Futile attempts may be made to bring other issues into this canvass, but the main issue is as stated above, and is so understood by the Democrats of Kentucky. Mr. Beckham can well afford to base his claims for nomination upon his distinguished public services and his exceptional fitness for the office he seeks. But the Democratic party in Kentucky must settle for itself this old question of the election of W. O. Bradley. Therefore, every Democrat who approves of the course of Lillard, McNutt, Charlton and Mueller will vote against Mr. Beckham, and those who denounce the conduct of those men will say so at the polls.—Louisville Post.

Pension Act Questioned.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 25.—In response to the question raised by his bondsmen, Auditor Henry M. Bosworth addressed a letter today to Attorney General Jas. Garnett, asking for an opinion as to the constitutionality of the act of the last Legislature providing pensions for indigent Confederate soldiers.

In the letter the Auditor says he is in hearty sympathy with the purpose of the legislative act, but as the question has been raised as to its legality, he takes this step only to protect himself and his bondsmen.

None of the pensions have been paid yet, and the present estimate is that they will amount to at least $300,000 a year when all of them are passed upon.

ODD FACTS ABOUT HEREDITY

Color-Blindness Descends from Male to Female, or Vice Versa, Declares London Professor.

London.—Lecturing at the Royal Institute on "Heredity of Sex," Prof. Bateson relates some curious facts which have been discovered as a result of examining several generations of a family in which color-blindness appeared.

A color-blind woman, he said, is very rarely found and she always is a daughter of a color-blind man. Her sons and daughters would be normal, her son's families would be normal, but if her daughter had sons, they would be found to be normal and color-blind in equal numbers.

A curious anomaly with reference to color-blindness appeared in twins. They were girls, exactly alike in appearance, but one was color-blind and the other was not. No explanation of this exception had been found. Prof. Bateson said there is a popular belief that sons in certain respects took after mothers and daughters after fathers. Within a reasonable range of speculation this is true, he said.

The Forty Year Test.

An article must have exceptional merit to survive for a period of forty years. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was first offered to the public in 1872. From a small beginning it has grown in favor and popularity until it has attained a world wide reputation. You will find nothing better for a cough or cold. Try it and you will understand why it is a favorite after a period of more than forty years. It not only gives relief—it cures. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

PLAN TO AID CAR EMPLOYES

Offer to Inaugurate Co-operative System Whereby Workers May Purchase Necessities at Cost.

New York.—The inauguration of a co-operative plan for all employees of the New York subway and elevated lines and the surface lines of the New York Railways company which will enable them to purchase at cost the necessities of life, was announced by Theodore P. Shonta, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit company and affiliated lines.

An increase of wages amounting to $150,000 a year also was announced, affecting about 3,500 men on the surface lines.

After the approval of the employees is received a store will be established stocked as a general grocery and meat market. It is declared that a saving of from 20 to 30 per cent. would result to the employees.

be made to pay for it.
"Even I was puzzled," smiled Agatha. "I thought she was some one I knew."
"Nonsense!" growled Mr. Straker. "Anybody with two eyes could see the difference. She's older, and heavier. What did the scoundrel want with her?"
"I don't know. She's a princess or something."
Mr. Straker jumped. "She is!" he cried. "Lord, why didn't you tell me?"
"I'm trying to."

"Advertising!" he shouted joyfully. "Jimmy Christmas! We'll make it up—all this time lost. Princess who? Where from? I guess you do look like her, after all. I see it all now—head-line! 'Strange confusion of identity! Which is the princess?' It'll draw crowds—thousands."

Agatha escaped, leaving Mr. Straker to collect from others the details of his advertising story, which he did with surprising speed and accuracy. By the next morning he had pumped Sallie, Doctor Thayer and Aleck Van Camp, and had extracted the promise of an interview from Miss Reynier herself.

The only really unsatisfactory subject of investigation was Mr. Hand, whom Straker watched for a day or two with growing suspicion. Straker had sputtered, good-naturally enough, over the "accident" to his racing-car, and had taken it for granted, in rather a high-handed manner, that Mr. Hand was to make repairs. His manner toward the chauffeur was not pleasant, being a combination of the patron and the bully. It was exactly the sort of manner to precipitate civil war, though diplomacy might serve to cover the breach for a time.

But the racing-car, ignominiously towed home by Miss Reynier's white machine, stood undisturbed in one of the open carriage sheds by the church. Eluded by Hand for the space of twenty-four hours, and finding that the injury to the car was beyond his own mechanical skill to repair, Mr. Straker sent peremptory word to Charlesport and to the Hillside for the services of a mechanic, without satisfaction. Little Simon thought the matter was beyond him, but informed Mr. Straker that perhaps the engineer at the quarry—a native who had "been to Boston"—and qualified as chauffeur—would come and look at it.

"Then for Heaven's sake, colonel, get him to come and be quick about it," adjured Mr. Straker. "And tell him for me that there's long-yellow for him if he'll make the thing right."
"He'll charge you two dollars an hour, including time on the road," solemnly announced Little Simon, unimpressed by any mention of the longyenew. Had Little Simon "liked," he could probably have mended the car himself, but Mr. Straker's manner, so effective on Broadway, was not to the taste of these country people. He thought of them in their poverty as "peasants," but without the kindness of the born gentleman. What Aleck Van Camp could have got for love, Mr. Straker could not buy; and he was at last obliged to appeal to Hand through Agatha's agency.

"I'll look at it again," Hand replied shortly, when Agatha addressed him on the subject.

The car being temporarily out of commission, it was necessary for Mr. Straker to adopt some other means of making himself and everybody about him extremely busy. He took a fancy for yachting, and got himself diligently instructed in an art which, of all arts, must be absorbed with the mother's milk, taken with the three R's and followed with enthusiastic devotion. In Mr. Straker every qualification for seamanship was lacking save enthusiasm, but as he himself never discovered this fact, his amour propre did not suffer, and his companions were partly relieved of the burden of his entertainment. Presently he made up his mind that it was time for him to see Jimmy. His nose, trained for scenting news, led him inevitably to the chief actor in the unusual drama which had indirectly involved his own fortunes, and he saw no reason why he should not follow it at once.

"You'd better wait a while," enunciated Doctor Thayer. "That young man pumped his heart dry as a seed-pod, and got some fever germs on top of that. He isn't fit to stand the third degree just yet."

"I'm not going to give him any third degree, not a bit of it. 'Hero! Saved a Princess!' and all that. That's what's coming to him as soon as the newspapers get hold of it. But I want to know how he did it, and what he did it for. Tell him to buck up."

Jimmy did buck up, though Mr. Straker's message still remains to be delivered. He gathered his forces and exhibited such recuperative abilities as to astonish the old red house and all Ilon. Doctor Thayer and each of his nurses in turn unconsciously assumed credit for the good work, and Sallie Kingsbury took a good share of pride in his satisfactory recovery.

"Two aigs regular," she would say, with all a housekeeper's glory in her guests' enjoyment of food.

There was enough credit to go round, indeed, and Jimmy presently became the animated and interesting center of the family. He might have been a new baby and his bedroom the sacred nursery. He was being spoiled every hour of the day.

"Did he have a good night?" Agatha would anxiously inquire of Mr. Hand.

"Can't tell which is night; he sleeps all the time," would be the tenor of Mr. Hand's reply. Or Sallie would ask, as if her fate depended on the answer, "Did he eat that nice piece of chicken, Aunt Susan?" And Mrs. Stoddard would say, "Eat it! It disappeared so quick I thought he'd choke. Wanted three more just like it, but I told him that invalids were like puppy-dogs—could only have one meal a day."

"Well, how'd he take that?" asked the interested Sallie.

"He said if I thought he was an invalid any longer I had another guess coming. Says he'll be up and into his clothes by tomorrow, and is going to take care of me. Says I'm pale and need a high-ball, whatever that is."

SELECTION OF ONIONS

Pays Well to Be Careful in Sending to Market.

Should Be Picked When Bulbs Begin to Show Slightly Rounded Bottoms—Demand is for Fresh and Neatest Appearing.

(By LAVILLA WRIGHT MACOMBER.)

Having discovered, after several seasons of experience, that large sized sets yield better than the small ones and occupy no more space, we sort out our small, even sized sets in early spring and sell to the stores, retaining all the medium or large left over onions to set for marketing.

Often grocers who have a large amount of grown onions left over in their cellars are glad to get rid of them for little or nothing and they make the best of sets even when the sprouts are spindly, for they soon straighten out of doors and have nearly a week the start of those not already sprouted.

We set our onions just as soon as the ground can be plowed and roughly leveled, leaving enough space between the closely set rows to cultivate with a weed hoe. A cold snap or light

HUSBAND TIRED OF SEEING HER SUFFER

Procured Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which made His Wife a Well Woman.

Middletown, Pa.—"I had headache, backache and such awful bearing down pains that I could not be on my feet at times and I had organic inflammation so badly that I was not able to do my work. I could not get a good meal for my husband and one child. My neighbors said they thought my suffering was terrible."

"My husband got tired of seeing me suffer and one night went to the drug store and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told me I must take it. I can't tell you all I suffered and I can't tell you all that your medicine has done for me. I was greatly benefited from the first and it has made me a well woman. I can do all my housework and even helped some of my friends as well. I think it is a wonderful help to all suffering women. I have got several to take it after seeing what it has done for me."—Mrs. EMMA ESPENSHADE, 219 East Main St., Middletown, Pa.

The Pinkham record is a proud and honorable one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of woman—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

WILSON SPEAKS TO THE NATION

Inaugural Address Delivered by the New President.

SEES WORK OF RESTORATION

Task of Victorious Democracy is to Square Every Process of National Life With Standards Set Up
at the Beginning.

Washington, March 4.—President Wilson's inaugural address, remarkable for its brevity, was listened to with the greatest interest by the vast throng which was gathered in front of the capitol's east portico, and at its close there was heard nothing but praise for its eloquence and high moral tone. The address in full was as follows:

There has been a change of government. It began two years ago, when the house of representatives became Democratic by a decisive majority. It has now been completed. The senate about to assemble will also be Democratic. The offices of president and vice-president have been put into the hands of Democrats. What does the change mean? That is the question that is uppermost in our minds today. That is the question I am going to try to answer, in order, if I may, to interpret the occasion.

Purpose of the Nation.

It means much more than the mere success of a party. The success of a party means little except when the nation is using that party for a large and definite purpose. No one can mistake the purpose for which the nation now seeks to use the Democratic party. It seeks to use it to interpret a change in its own plans and point of view. Some old things with which we had grown familiar, and which had begun to creep into the very habit of our thought and of our lives, have altered their aspect as we have latterly looked critically upon them, with fresh, awakened eyes; have dropped their disguises and shown themselves alien and sinister. Some new things, as we look frankly upon them, willing to comprehend their real character, have come to assume the aspect of things long believed in and familiar, stuff of our own convictions. We have been refreshed by a new insight into our own life.

We see that in many things that life is very great. It is incomparably great in its material aspects, in its body of wealth, in the diversity and sweep of its energy, in the industries which have been conceived and built up by the genius of individual men and the limitless enterprise of groups of men. It is great, also, very great, in its moral force. Nowhere else in the world have noble men and women exhibited in more striking form the beauty and energy of sympathy and helpfulness and counsel in their efforts to rectify wrong, alleviate suffering, and set the weak in the way of strength and hope. We have built up, moreover, a great system of government, which has stood through a long age as in many respects a model for those who seek to set liberty upon foundations that will endure against fortuitous change, against storm and accident. Our life contains every great thing, and contains it in rich abundance.

Evils That Have Come.

But the evil has come with the good, and much fine gold has been corroded. With riches has come luxurious waste. We have squandered a great part of what we might have used, and have not stopped to conserve the exceeding bounty of nature, without which our genius for enterprise would have been worthless and impotent, scorning to be careful, shamefully prodigal as well as admirably efficient. We have been proud of our industrial achievements, but we have not hitherto stopped thoughtfully enough to count the human cost, the cost of lives snuffed out, of energies overtaxed and broken, the fearful physical and spiritual cost to the men and women and children upon whom the dead weight and burden of it all has fallen pitilessly the years through. The groans and agony of it all had not yet reached our ears, the solemn, moving undertone of our life, coming up out of the mines and factories and out of every home where the struggle had its intimate and familiar seat. With the great government went many deep secret things which we too long delayed to look into and scrutinize with candid, fearless eyes. The great government we loved has too often been made use of for private and selfish purposes, and those who used it had forgotten the people.

At last a vision has been vouchsafed us of our life as a whole. We see the bad with the good, the debased and decadent with the sound and vital. With this vision we approach new affairs. Our duty is to cleanse, to reconsider, to restore, to correct the evil without impairing the good, to purify and humanize every process of our common life without weakening or sentimentalizing it. There has been something crude and heartless and unfeeling in our haste to succeed and be great. Our thought has been 'Let every man look out for himself, let every generation look out for itself,' while we reared giant machinery which made it impossible that any but those who stood at the levers of control should have a chance to look out for themselves. We had not forgotten our morals. We remembered well enough that we had set up a policy which was meant to serve the humblest as well as the most powerful, with an eye single to the standards of justice and fair play, and remembered it with pride. But we were very heedless and in a hurry to be great.

Things to Be Altered.

We have come now to the sober second thought. The scales of heedlessness have fallen from our eyes. We have made up our minds to square every process of our national life again with the standards we so proudly set up at the beginning and have always carried at our hearts. Our work is a work of restoration.

We have itemized with some degree of particularity the things that ought to be altered and here are some of the chief items: A tariff which cuts us off from our proper part in the commerce of the world, violates the just principles of taxation, and makes the government a facile instrument in the hands of private interests; a banking and currency system based upon the necessity of the government to sell its bonds fifty years ago and perfectly adapted to concentrating cash and restricting credits; an industrial system which, take it on all its sides, financial as well as administrative, holds capital in leading strings, restricts the liberties and limits the opportunities of labor, and exploits without renewing or conserving the natural resources of the country; a body of agricultural activities never yet given the efficiency of great business undertakings or served as it should be through the instrumentality of science taken directly to the farm, or afforded the facilities of credit best suited to its practical needs; water courses undeveloped, waste places unreclaimed, forests untended, fast disappearing without plan or prospect of renewal, unregarded waste heaps at every mine. We have studied as perhaps no other nation has the most effective means of production, but we have not studied cost or economy as we should either as organizers of industry, as statesmen, or as individuals.

Government for Humanity.

Nor have we studied and perfected the means by which government may be put at the service of humanity, in safeguarding the health of the nation, the health of its men and its women and its children, as well as their rights in the struggle for existence. This is no sentimental duty. The firm basis of government is justice, not pity. These are matters of justice. There can be no equality or opportunity, the first essential of justice in the body politic, if men and women and children be not shielded in their lives, their very vitality, from the consequences of great industrial and social processes which they cannot alter, control, or singly cope with. Society must see to it that it does not itself crush or weaken or damage its own constituent parts. The first duty of law is to keep sound the society it serves. Sanitary laws, pure food laws, and laws determining conditions of labor which individuals are powerless to determine for themselves are intimate parts of the very business of justice and legal efficiency.

These are some of the things we ought to do, and not leave the others undone, the old-fashioned, never-to-be-neglected, fundamental safeguarding of property and of individual right. This is the high enterprise of the new day: to lift everything that concerns our life as a nation to the light that shines from the hearthfire of every man's conscience and vision of the right. It is inconceivable that we should do this as partisans; it is inconceivable we should do it in ignorance of the facts as they are or in blind haste. We shall restore, not destroy. We shall deal with our economic system as it is and as it may be modified, not as it might be if we had a clean sheet of paper to write upon; and step by step we shall make it what it should be, in the spirit of those who question their own wisdom and seek counsel and knowledge, not shallow self-satisfaction or the excitement of excursions whither they cannot tell. Justice, and only justice, shall always be our motto.

Nation Deeply Stirred.

And yet it will be no cool process of mere science. The nation has been deeply stirred, stirred by a solemn passion, stirred by the knowledge of wrong, of ideals lost, of government too often debauched and made an instrument of evil. The feelings with which we face this new age of right and opportunity sweep across our heart-strings like some air out of God's own presence, where justice and mercy are reconciled and the judge and the brother are one. We know our task to be no mere task of politics but a task which shall search us through and through, whether we be able to understand our time and the need of our people, whether we be indeed their spokesmen and interpreters, whether we have the pure heart to comprehend and the rectified will to choose our high course of action.

This is not a day of triumph; it is a day of dedication. Here must enter the forces of party, but the forces of humanity. Men's hearts wait upon us; men's lives hang in the balance; men's hopes call upon us to say what we will do. Who shall live up to the great trust? Who dares fail to try? I summon all honest men, all patriotic, all forward-looking men, to my side. God helping me, I will not fail them, if they will but counsel and sustain me!

Possibly the era of superstition is withering away. One of the great steamship lines is to start out its vessels on Fridays hereafter. Yet the canny traveler still refuses to sleep in upper 13.
